British Government

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declared in the house of commons today that "any action" by Italy toward altering the Mediterranean territorial status quo with regard to Tunis "would be a matter of grave concern to the British government."

The prime minister asserted that the Italian undertaking to respect the Mediterranean status quo "certainly applied to Tunis."

Cheers and interruptions marked a series of questions in the house of Italian demands for Tunis, Nice and Corsica.

Geoffrey Mander, liberal member, asked:

"Is it not most important that France would know whether this country would stand by her if Tunis or Corsica were attacked?"

Declines To Answer

The prime minister declined to answer this and a number of other questions along similar lines.

But when Arthur Henderson, labor leader, asked about Italy's undertaking to respect the Mediterranean status quo, Chamberlain assured the house that the agreement covered WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Capt. Anthony Eden dazzled feminine hearts of the capital today, but left veteran diplomats mystified over his "unofficial" visit.

The diplomats sought the answers to these questions:

Was there more than coincidence in the former foreign secretary's descent on Washington simultaneously with Prime Minister Chamberlain's world-wide broadcast in which he accentuated the bonds of friendship between the United States and Great Britain?

What transpired between President Roosevelt and the smiling young advocate of half-the-dictators policy in their 45-minute White House conference?

Do Eden's guarded utterances portend a "burying" of the hatchet with Chamberlain and a return to the British cabinet, or will he be sent to Washington as British ambassador when Sir Ronald Lindsay retires soon?

Whatever the answers might be, a captivated capital was ungrudgingly unanimous that as an unofficial ambassador of good will Captain Eden has proved himself a success.

If the diplomats were discomfited, to the ladies there were no problems of state to be-fog their enthusiastically-expressed adulation.

Two Charged By Federal Agents
With Espionage

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—Charged with espionage, two men, said to be Russians, were held under close guard, incommunicado, today by federal agents.

They were identified by agents as: Michael Gorin, 34, Pacific coast manager of Intourist, Inc., a Soviet travel bureau, and Hafis Salich, 33, a former Berkeley police officer, said recently to have been working for the U. S. naval intelligence.

Both men were accused of transmitting to a foreign power "documents, writings and instruments important to the national defense of the United States."

They were arrested in Los Angeles yesterday and were immediately brought before United States Commissioner David Head, who ordered them held under $25,000 bond each.

Under orders from Washington, Assistant U. S. District Attorney William Fleet Palmer and federal agents said they could not discuss the case, adding that the men were ordered held incommunicado for 48 hours.

Preliminary hearing on the charges was set for December 23.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler is returning tonight to Berlin, where, within the next few days he will preside over the final year-end cabinet session which is expected to complete the forthcoming anti-Jewish decrees.

These decrees, it is learned, will be designed to complete the legal exclusion of the Jews from Germany's community life pending their emigration from the Reich.

It is the contention of the Nazis that until their exodus from Germany the Jews within the Reich "must be permitted necessary living facilities, but must not be treated in a manner which might encourage them to remain here."

The chancellor in addition to giving his attention to the Jewish decrees, will devote part of his sojourn in the capital to foreign affairs.

He will receive the Czech and Hungarian foreign ministers next week and then go to Munich. The chancellor will spend the Christmas holidays at Berchtesgaden.

Out In Germany

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The hint in the German press that the Nazi government might move for internationalization of the Panama Canal evoked only amusement in official quarters in Washington today.

Officials declined public comment on the ground that the inference was not even worthy of consideration. There were reminders, however, that the Panama Canal was constructed by American engineering genius and finances, where the efforts of others had failed, that the American flag flies over the canal, that it is an integral and vital part of American defenses, and that the United States has not even a remote idea of sharing the canal's control with other nations.

It was pointed out, at the same time, that all nations are accorded equal rights in use of the canal for their shipping, and have been since its completion, except during the World War.

American shipping is charged the same rates of transit as foreign shipping, the only exception being the war vessels of the American navy, army transports and of the Republic of Colombia.

Gable admitted yesterday that he plans to ask his wife, Mrs. Maria Gable, from whom he has been separated for more than three years, to secure a divorce.

And it has been no secret to Hollywood that Gable wants very much to marry Miss Lombard the moment he is legally free. He refused to comment on the marriage angle, however, when he made the divorce announcement.

Scottdale Storekeeper Is

(International News Service)
CONNELLVILLE, Pa., Dec. 14.—County detectives today launched a widespread manhunt for two Negroes who last night killed Naum Acheff, 55, during the holdup of his confectionery store at Scottdale and in their nervousness fled without loot.

One of the thugs clubbed Acheff on the head and another shot him through the abdomen, the victim told police before he died enroute to the Frick Memorial hospital. He said they gave him no time to comply with their demands.

Achaff achieved prominence during NRA days when he shot Patrolman Don R. Graham, who entered the store to pacify him over taunts of neighborhood children because his establishment had no blue eagle poster. He was sentenced to jail for a short time after the patrolman recovered.

Westmoreland county authorities were called into the killing. They said Achaff had managed to give a good description of the killers before he died. He leaves a widow and a daughter in Bulgaria.

(International News Service)
BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 14.—Mrs. Rose Hardman, 47, seriously wounded by her husband, Robert, 57, a WPA worker, ran amuck and shot four persons before committing suicide, today was reported to be in a "poor" condition.

Attaches at the Providence hospital, Beaver Falls, said that although Mrs. Hardman spent a fairly good night resting, her condition was still extremely critical, and there was not much hope that she would survive the bullet wound in her head.

Hardman, apparently crazed by anger and resentment because he had been ordered to leave his home during domestic troubles, failed in an attempt to effect a reconciliation with his wife, drew a revolver, shot her through the head, wounded three other persons, and then jammed the barrel of the gun down his own throat and pulled the trigger. Mrs. Hardman is the mother of eight children.

The other victims of Hardman's gunfire were his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Dorothy Davis Hardman, 23; Chester Dickey, 22, Rogers, O.; and Raymond Fazzell, 25. The latter three were only slightly wounded.

Charge

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—With the testimony of its three principal witnesses virtually completed, the prosecution planned today to wind up its case against Martin (The Gimp) Snyder, former husband of Ruth Etting charged with attempting to murder Miss Etting's boy friend, Myrl S. Alderman.

Today's witnesses will testify about death threats alleged to have been made to the radio songbird by "The Gimp."

They are Gertrude and Fred Clampt, Maxine McKinley, Gwendolyn Feldman and Arthur Etting, according to Prosecutor U. U. Blacklock.

Miss Etting, termed by Snyder in moments of affection as "the little lady," finished her testimony yesterday and was followed by Snyder's daughter by a previous marriage, Edith, 21, and Alderman, the 30-year-old piano player who received a bullet wound in his abdomen during a riotous afternoon in his Hollywood home last October 15.

The state is trying to show Snyder not only attempted to murder Alderman, but "the little lady" and Miss Snyder as well. In all, he faces six felony counts.

A jury convicted Wells of slaying William Pantazis, cafe owner, in an Akron holdup last Dec. 16.

Davey, who a week ago refused to save Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison murderess, from the electric chair, issued a statement in the Wells case, explaining that he was granting a commutation in this instance only because three other youths equally guilty with Wells, got off with life sentences.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 14.—A "gentlemen's agreement" under which the American nations would cooperate in the event of outside aggression against any of their number appeared closer today following a radio address by Secretary of State Cordell Hull criticizing "alien ideas."

Delegates to the Pan-American conference revealed that a resolution embracing the proposed "gentlemen's agreement" may be adopted unanimously by the conference in the near future—possible before tonight.

To Defend Principles

In his radio broadcast to the United States, Hull said that delegates to the conference, faced by a grave world situation, have become more determined than ever to "defend their principles and institutions against alien ideas."

"The American nations are keenly aware of the threat to their principles and institutions which has arisen elsewhere in nations holding alien ideas, which they seek to impose by force or extend by deception."

Expressing his confidence that the conference would show marked progress, the American secretary of state said:

"Let me express first the clear impression I already have gained from my conversations with my colleagues of other countries—that there exist between us a measure of moral and spiritual unity far greater than ever before."

To Live In Peace

Hull declared advancement of relations among the Americas rests "upon a common acceptance of fundamental principles for which American nations fought in their struggles for independence." He added:

"When, as today, in other parts of the world these fundamental principles are being subordinated to other philosophies or purposes, the American nations understand anew their precious and life-giving quality."

For the American peoples, hold maintenance of and respect for human rights and individual liberties essential to progress of mankind and to worthy civilization."

Hull said he was convinced the American nations desire to live in peace with all other nations, but that "they are determined to defend these institutions and principles of their own choice."

Holly in the windows and little hints of snow, Christmas trees out the street, but where's the mistletoe? Must have that for Christmas just a sprig or two, have it handy when you're out, carry it with you, may meet some nice lassie, meet her unaware, place the mistletoe you have and take it in her hair. She'll get your meaning, lassies always do, better not be caught without, better still have two. Mistletoe and holly and shining evergreens and lighted homes along the streets, cheery Christmas scenes. Don't forget the warning, no matter what you do, have some mistletoe around, weather's thirty-two.

PA NEWC
OBSERVES

One nice thing about the recent mild weather is that there is no snow to remove from the highways, and it's a good thing, for it is said that more than one-fourth of the entire winter budget for snow removal was spent during Thanksgiving week. The budget for this winter was two million dollars, and it will only take three more snows like that of Thanksgiving week to exhaust it.

One of the bills which failed to become a law at the last session of the legislature was that prohibiting fireworks in the state. It is likely that another bill will be introduced at the coming session, since the vote on the last one was very close, it being lost by a margin of only two votes. Most cities, like New Castle, have ordinances banning fireworks, but they are rendered obsolete since stands are erected, and fireworks sold, just outside the city limits.

Mrs. William G. Patton of 907 Loraine avenue sends Pa News a timely suggestion. She says: "I think a good idea for Christmas is this: Pay all our own newsboys and give him an extra week for a Christmas present. It isn't much on your part, but it shows him what you think of the boy who comes every day, rain or shine. And then if your carrier has a large route, think how happy a few pennies from each customer will make him. I have done this for several years with The News and also two Sunday paper boys. I find it pays."

George Burns May Not Be Only Prominent Person In Case Says Officials

WOMAN TO ENTER HER PLEA TODAY

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—A New York supreme court justice's wife, involved in a smuggling expose that already has brought a guilty plea for radio and screen comedian George Burns, was slated to leave a sick bed and plead today to charges of smuggling feminine finery into the United States.

She is Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, who is accused jointly with Albert M. Chaperau, self-styled diplomat, and intimate of Hollywood notables, of smuggling women's wearing apparel valued at approximately $1,800 into this country. Chaperau, linked with Burns in an indictment charging they smuggled in $4,885 of jewelry, has pleaded not guilty to all accusations and remains in jail in default of $20,000 bail.

Burns In Hollywood

Burns, released in custody of his attorney, has rejoined his wife, Gracie Allen, in Hollywood. He is expected to be witness for the prosecution in the Chaperau trial slated for Dec. 23 but not expected to open the trial gets underway at least six others, called "as prominent as Burns," may feel the sting of an indictment. Said Supervisor of Customs John W. Roberts: "We believe others as prominent as Burns had Chaperau bring jewelry from abroad which Chaperau did not declare."

Roberts explained that Burns actually did not bring the jewelry into this country. He stated, however, that the comedian knew the customs duty had not been paid on the jewelry that he bought.

The government contends that Chaperau, posing as a commercial attaché of the Nicaraguan government, took advantage of the "courtesy of the port" extended to such officials and smuggled in the jewelry and finery in unexamined baggage.

Germans Boycott Dinner

On Dec. 14.—Relations between Great Britain and Nazi Germany were submitted to another test today after the Reich ambassador to London, his staff and German news correspondents boycotted a dinner of the foreign press association because of a speech by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain criticizing the Nazi press.

It was believed that this incident would greatly increase interest in, and lend added asperity to, the forthcoming foreign affairs debate in the house of commons, scheduled for next Monday.

At that time a vote is expected on a motion, tabled by the labor party, to censure Chamberlain's foreign policy of European appeasement.

According to reports in London, Chancellor Hitler himself at Munich directly instructed Reich ambassador Herbert Von Dirksen, members of the embassy staff and the German journalists in London not to attend the dinner.

The Fuehrer's "ban" on the dinner was said to have been telephoned to London after he was informed of the criticisms contained in Chamberlain's speech. Angered and surprised, Hitler was said to have made up his mind to order the boycott without hesitation.

Local merchants are warned to be on the lookout for counterfeit bills during the Christmas season. There is always more money in circulation at this time of the year, and as the stores are generally busy there is a better opportunity for crooks to get in their work. The secret service officials urge that if a merchant or clerk is handed a bill which is recognized as counterfeit, it be not returned to the passer. Instead try and delay the passer until the police can be notified, but if the passer leaves get a good description of him.

While many taxpayers were hoping that city council could reduce taxes this year, the fact that they are not to be increased is some consolation. Valuations on city property on which the millage is based, have not been reduced in recent years in proportion to the decrease in sale values, so that as assessments stand today many are equal, and some above, actual market values. Expenses of cities are generally run up in good times, and valuations hit the high spots, that's why, when a depression comes, it's hard for the taxing power to put on the brakes. Council is to be commended in its efforts to economize.

We hear a lot of talk these days about "propaganda," with which the public may be more or less confused. Dr. Clyde R. Miller of Columbia University gives a very clear definition of the term. He says: "Propaganda is the expression of opinions and actions by one group in an effort to influence the opinions and actions of another group." Dr. Miller compares the mind to a camera film upon which all propaganda is focused. The mind is conditioned to accept certain facts and reject others. The way we are brought up makes a great difference in the way we treat propaganda.

We are hearing a lot now about the joyous Christmas season, but most people will agree that the joy comes after all the buying has been done.

PORTLAND, Ore.—A small smear on a chewing gum wrapper and a stain on the blade of a pen knife formed the link that bound Gus Hollingshead of Kelso, Wash., to a federal grand jury on charges of violating the narcotic law. Woman's Club Hears Fine Talk By Barclay Acheson Advocating Democracy as the best solution to current social and political dilemmas, Barclay Acheson, associate editor of Readers Digest, well known as an authority on foreign affairs as well as on present trends in American thought, gave a stirring talk before Woman's club members and guests Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium of Highland U. P. church.

Recognizing the seriousness of present day trends, the noted editor has little use for prophets of gloom or philosophies of despair. He believes that these problems, viewed in perspective, show an advance even in the debatable fields of social justice and national morals.

In support of this conclusion, Mr. Acheson compares conditions of a century ago with those of today, and points out that contemporary problems are not caused by any inadequacy of democratic institutions, but are the inevitable outgrowth of successful efforts to solve the problems that dominated nineteenth-century thought.

In discussing America's phenomenal growth as a nation, he attributes her progress to the unhampered exercise of individual initiative, and the genius of enlightened minorities, which have always flourished on American soil, and led the way forward. He believes that the best insurance for America's future is to rear her children in a mental climate of hope and courage and common sense.

Mr. Acheson is a most interesting speaker, digressing occasionally in a humorous vein to hold the keen attention of his audience to the close of his address. He is a Canadian by birth, educated in this country, and holds degrees from several American universities.

Following service in the World War, Mr. Acheson spent 10 years administering relief funds in Russia, Greece, Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Iraq and Turkey, disbursing $110,000,000 of American relief money, and rescuing some 2,000,000 persons from starvation. He worked with the Refugee Resettlement commission of the League of Nations, and with many statesmen and rulers of Europe.

He has been decorated several times for his work abroad, the most recent recognition being the Commander of the Order of the Redeemer, awarded by the Greek government.

New Castle audiences (two in number as he spoke before the Lions club at the noon luncheon) were indeed fortunate to hear Mr. Acheson Monday, as he left a busy office particularly so at this time of year, to bring a serious and enlightening message to local people.

Great credit for his coming is reflected upon the program committee of the Woman's club, Mrs. Eliah Kaplan, Mrs. J. L. Vogan and Mrs. H. R. McCulloch, the first named introducing him.

Special music contributed to the pleasure of yesterday's meeting, with Mrs. J. L. Reed at the organ and Joe Vogan at the piano. Two favorite numbers were played, Handel's "Largo" and "A Pastorale" by Guilant. Vogan, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Vogan, is one of the city's rising young pianists, while Mrs. Reed needs no introduction as she is widely known in the community and neighboring towns as a talented musician, both organist and pianist.

Mrs. A. B. Foster, president of Woman's club, presided at a brief business session during which resolutions on the passing of the late Mrs. Jessie Raney Murphy, a faithful member during her lifetime, were read by Mrs. M. R. Hornung.

Ladies Of Lions Yuletide Party At Leyde Residence

Ladies of the Lions chalked another successful event on their social calendar of activities on Tuesday evening, when they gathered in the home of Mrs. Joseph B. Leyde, corner of Winter and Highland avenues, for their annual Christmas entertainment. The Leyde home was beautifully decorated with pine, holly and other Yuletide appointments.

The occasion was largely attended, and numbered among the special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz, honorary members of the organization.

Highlighting the evening's entertainment was a special program sponsored by Mrs. Leyde, with the program committee headed by Mrs. Earl Wimer, assisting in a most able manner.

The features given and those taking part, included the following:

Program
"In A Monastery Garden"—Ketley.
"Minuet In A"—Bocherini; Mrs. Jay L. Reed (organist).
Christmas Songs—Croton School students; Miss Dorothy Patch, directors.
One Act Play—Senior High students; "Santa Claus' Second Marriage."
Christmas Carols—Croton School students; Mrs. Reed, accompanist.
"Christmas Fantasy" (organ)—Rebling; Mrs. Jay L. Reed.
Those included in the chorus were: first, sopranos, Ruth Hartman, Patricia Shira, Pauline Benson, Marian Furlong, Annie Scilla and Mary Lou McCreary; second sopranos, Dorothy Dale, Pauline Zeigler, Jean De Joseph and Theresa Panarella; altos, Mary Alice Kleckner and Philomena Stone.

Character parts were taken in the playlet by Everett Hoffman, Naomi Conn, Lenora Christy, Ida Mae Smith, Jack Mathews, David Taylor and Idylle Wimer.

Gifts were exchanged as the concluding feature, and afterwards, refreshments were served the guests, grouped about individual tables, which were colorfully decorated. Centering each, was a glowing bayberry candle.

Aiding Mrs. Leyde with the menu was the social committee, composing Mrs. H. H. Thayer, Mrs. J. S. Walter, Mrs. J. G. Rudolph, Mrs. J. B. Waddington, Mrs. C. S. Hudson, Mrs. J. E. Peacock and Mrs. Numa Vidal.

Special announcement was made during the evening regarding the annual blind party, to be held on Tuesday, December 20, in the Third United Presbyterian church. A large representation of the Ladies of the Lions club is already indicated.

Mrs. R. L. Boyd, president of the organization, presided during the short business meeting which preceded the program.

Serving a delicious menu was a committee of three, Mrs. Louis Ott, Mrs. Chester Hetrick and Miss Ann Hitchen.

A pageant was presented as the following feature, entitled "The Spirit of the Christ Child." Enacting the roles were: "Spirit of Hope" by Mrs. William Mayer, "Spirit of Love" by Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, "Spirit of Charity" by Edith Cowden, "Spirit of Music" by Mrs. T. J. Evans, "Spirit of Christmas" by Mrs. Louis Ott, "Spirit of Knowledge" by Mrs. David Riley, "Spirit of Friendship" by Jean Riley, "Spirit of Christian Religion" by Florence Hitchen. Miss Ann Hitchen was reader.

"Away In A Manger" was sung by Mrs. David Riley and Florence Hitchen, duet; "Silent Night" was given by the quartet made up of Edith Cowden, Jean Riley, Ada Riley and Florence Hitchen.

A gift exchange followed. At the close, Mrs. Samuel Black, wife of the pastor, Rev. Samuel Black, was given a lovely (farewell) gift in behalf of the Guild, as a token of remembrance for her loyalty and untiring efforts with the church activities during the past. They will leave soon for Kane, Pa., where Rev. Black has accepted a call.

Contest prizes were awarded during the evening to Mrs. J. C. Hetrick and Mrs. Robert Davies.

Greeting to all, given by Mrs. William Wignall, opened the evening's activities.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HOW COLLEGIANS BEHAVE

Young college men and women returning home on vacation have the problem of proving to their old associates, that they don't feel superior to them. Unfortunately, a few college students do have this feeling. They suppose they are made of some very special clay. Among the few who go to church or other neighborhood programs, some seem to think they have a special license to talk during the worship or other exercises or show off in some other way.

Most college students, however, really try hard to exercise due humility. They try to earn and keep the esteem of their childhood comrades. In spite of their sincere efforts in this direction, they still may be misunderstood and be thought of as "stuck up." Yet, those who do succeed in proving their worthiness among their old pals have won a great victory for their characters and personalities.

Worthy Of Family

Winners, too, in character and personality are those students who, while home on vacation, prove themselves worthy members of their own family—not mere parasites. Realize what it must mean to the happiness of those parents whose son or daughter expresses gratitude to them by spending a reasonable part of the vacation at home and assisting with some of the household chores. That son or daughter who helps the mother without a maid to prepare the meals, wash the dishes and tidy the house does a hundred times more than these mere chores.

I have known some college students who have prevailed upon their parents to go off for a few days for a real vacation together, the students assuming all the home responsibilities the while.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

LET THEM WORK.

The formative period of a man's life is that time running from his birth to the age of about fourteen years. If the child—boy or girl, does not learn in that time to respect his elders; to obey the law and earn some money outside of school hours, at work which a boy or girl can do, he or she will never amount to much as a man or woman.

The Roman Catholic Church has always maintained its Parochial Schools. It has always insisted upon its members sending their children to those schools and to see that the children attend the regular services of the Church and while perhaps that religious organization has not expressed it in these exact words, in effect it has said, "let us educate a child until he is fourteen years of age and he never will forget the lessons we teach."

And so, I say this great how-do-you-about child labor; this National Act that forbids the employment of children under the age of fourteen is vicious. Take a boy, for instance: There are many things a boy can do before he is fourteen years of age, by which he will enrich his own life and assist his parents in his support and education. The biographies of successful men of this nation generally recount that in their boyhood they worked as newspaper vendors or carriers, as telegraph messenger boys, as cash boys in mercantile houses or at some of the many employments at which a boy may work, without impairing his health in any way; rather, on the contrary, making him a stronger and more virile man.

If a boy does not work at any gainful enterprise before he is fourteen, the chances are he never will become a valuable addition to Society. He learns in those young days the value of a dollar. He acquires ambition. He gets a very good start in life. As a matter of fact, there are comparatively few individuals or corporations in this country that have exploited child labor. There have been, of course, wolfish men. These are the men who are at the head of the great political rackets. They are the men who take a penny-day from the blind and helpless, with the promise that with the assistance of these pennies they will procure for them a comfortable living from the Government. Such a racket in the State of California, resulted in the payment by these people of about $5,000,000, part of which actually went into a political campaign, but for a large part of which there has been no accounting.

Of hardly less promise for the America of tomorrow is our new concept of social consciousness. Whether the United States is preponderantly New Deal or not may be open to question. What is unquestionable is that the Nation has become irrevocably Square Deal. Wherever you go, not Mr. Roosevelt is responsible for it, there is a new "moral climate" abroad in the land—a rugged realization that the underprivileged are entitled to more of the sweets of American life than they have had, and that the privilege class, to that end, must steel itself to enjoy fewer of them than it has hitherto been accustomed or willing to accept.

Finally, it strikes me as a further guarantee of a sound national future that America is adamant in insistence that, while the forgotten man shall henceforth be remembered, the task of improving his status shall be undertaken in accord with Constitutional processes, and not by starry-eyed idealists and reformers so impatient to achieve the millennium that they are ready to purge and regiment on lines utterly alien to the civilization which Washington founded and Lincoln preserved. With an American determined to safeguard the Bill of Rights and unwilling to resist men and innovations that would transgress it, all will continue to be "right."

HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:36. Sun rises tomorrow 7:14.

We are not going to say anything nice about anybody in this column until after Christmas because they will be thinking we are hinting for a gift. On the other hand we are not going to say anything mean about any person either.

Seems sort of queer, but the harder it is to get money the more of it is needed, sump'n' wrong!

TODAY'S STORYETTE

Canon William Chase of the Boston Watch & Ward Society, was condemning a proposed lottery bill. "The belief that a lottery can ever benefit a country," he said, shows ignorance and stupidity. The politicians who stand for it, remind me of a story I once heard.

"A good bridge player at the end of a lost game, sat and stared at his partner, who was a very poor player indeed."

"Partner," he said, "how long have you been playing bridge?"

"Over 20 years."

"Is it possible?"

"The good player looked incredulous."

"I never would have believed," he said, "that a man could acquire such appalling ignorance of the game in so short a time."

CALLED MOST ANYTHING
The Man From Missouri says that sometimes it is called "scraping," "sousing" or "hoghead pudding."

"Regardless of the name," he writes, "a skillet full of these slabs, in the act of turning brown, is inspiration even enough to get an editor up before breakfast."

The Man From Missouri tells me that he read in a Missouri newspaper the other day what an editor said about hoghead meat. The scribe said, "If a fellow had plenty of cornmeal and could beg a few hog's heads he could turn winter into a pretty good thing."

Most slang expressions wear out quickly, but "I'll say so" stuck around almost an era.

A woman writer says: "Men are like chairs. They vary in shape and size, but all can be sat on. Some men are like mahogany chairs, they lose their polish after a little while. Some are like chippendale chairs, they need delicate handling. Some are like plush upholstered chairs. One cannot stand them on a hot day. Others are like parliamentary seats, they have to be won. Some married men are like desk chairs, they are always being dragged about. Some are like rocking chairs, they put you to sleep. And finally, some men are like benches, it takes more than one woman to sit on them—a wife and a mother-in-law."

What's What At A Glance

Strike Defeat Democratic Triumph
No Totalitarian State Is Planned
Deladier Wins Out In Nasty Crisis

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 14.—The failure of the general strike called in France recently against the Daladier government isn't interpreted in official Washington as having been a labor defeat. Rather, based on reports from Uncle Sam's diplomatic representatives in the Gallic republic, it is seen as having been a democratic triumph. In fact, I've heard it so spoken of by trades union leaders here in our own capital. The idea is that Premier Daladier is given credit for being a genuine liberal. He has been given some pretty dictatorial authority. Still, France is in the midst of a nasty crisis—economic at least; maybe military. Perhaps it was necessary to give the Paris government considerable emergency power. Anyway it was legally voted by the French parliament, which, in turn, was democratically elected. It isn't a mere rubber stamp, like some so-called legislative bodies.

In two or three situations of stress even our American Congress has been rather profuse in its grants of dictatorial discretions to the White House. Besides, the grants to Daladier have been only temporary in character; the latter's decrees must be legislatively indorsed before becoming permanently effective. True, a dictator's tendency is to hang on indefinitely, however temporary his creators may originally have intended his regime to be. However, there are bright hopes that Daladier will prove to be an exception.

On the opposite hand, Leon Jouhaux, the labor leader who called the general strike, is strongly suspected of having planned to establish totalitarian rule, as in Italy and Germany, with himself as boss of it.

IMITATING MUSSOLINI?

It was in just that fashion that Benito Mussolini became absolute in Italy.

It was as a workingman's champion that he started his march on Rome during the disorganized days just after the World War. Everyone considered him a radical. Well, possibly he was a radical but not a liberal one.

Adolf Hitler was a workingman, too, initially.

That Jouhaux had the same notion in the back of his cranium is a matter of guesswork. Yet it's obvious that the French were afraid of him. Not only was the public cold toward his general strike program.

The workingmen also evidently were afraid they didn't strike in appreciable numbers.

The French government has a certain advantage in these strike crises.

The country has universal military service, with all its able bodied workers on the reserve list, subject to call at any time. When its railroad men, for instance, threaten to strike, the government summons them to the colors. Then it says "You, as soldiers, are assigned to run the railroads." If they don't do it they're military mutineers. Ditto as to other industries.

A man can strike quite readily as a worker, yet hesitate to refuse military duty.

Jouhaux's strike was called only for 24 hours, but the dope was that that was only a beginning—that democratic government would collapse and that Jouhaux would take it over.

SETBACK FOR TOTALITARIANS
The completeness of the Jouhaux flop was wonderfully promising for democracy.

If France had gone totalitarian (that is to say, Fascist or Nazi-istic or Communist) Britain would have been on the end of the democratic limb in Europe.

The United States wouldn't have been near the end of the limb, but we'd have been on it.

It wasn't so much a labor-versus-capital fight in France.

It was democracy versus threatened autocracy.

Labor in this country wasn't pro-Jouhaux.

The Great Game Of Politics

Without Recommendation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.

THE WASTE of public funds is so overwhelmingly the outstanding characteristic of the New Deal, and thrift is so sternly frowned upon by the President's most potent advisers, that the discovery of any agency created by Mr. Roosevelt which has not spent every nickel allotted to it—and asked for more—is a piece of news, no matter how small the amount.

IT IS pleasant to record, therefore, that one such does exist, though temporarily. The Commission on Industrial Relations, of which Mr. Gerard Swope is chairman, sent abroad last summer by the President to investigate labor conditions in Great Britain and Sweden, has finished its job and made its report. The appropriation for its expenses was $50,000; the total amount spent was less than $6,000. Disregarding the smallness of the sums, the proportion of expenditure to apportionment is without precedent in government history.

OF COURSE, if Mr. Roosevelt had not deliberately limited the scope of the commission, its work would have much greater value. When first named, the assumption was that the investigations of this group of capable and impartial men would result in recommendations to the President for amendments to the Wagner Labor Act as to remove the more serious objections which have caused it to be so widely condemned. Upon this assumption the appointment of the commission was generally praised, and there is reason to believe that such was the original idea behind its creation.

WHETHER the pressure came from the "intellectual liberals" who infest the White House or from the C. I. O., or from both, isn't particularly important. The important thing is that before the commission sailed Mr. Roosevelt completely repudiated the idea that it would study conditions abroad with a view to enabling him to correct the larger flaws in the Wagner Labor Act—or that it had any such instructions. Quite the reverse. Somewhat heatedly he rejected the suggestion that the facts gathered would be used for any such purpose. In brief, he swept away in a press conference statement what seemed to be the best and most logical reason for sending the commission over. The result was that before it sailed it was subjected to more or less general criticism as an example of useless effort and unnecessary expense. After the President got through explaining that the commission was to make no recommendations, and that not even remotely would its findings be applied to the Labor Act, there seemed no point to it at all.

IT IS very much to the credit of Mr. Swope and his fellow-members that under such circumstances they did so good a job at a small cost. It is true that reports—on on Great Britain and one on Sweden—which have been submitted to the Secretary of Labor make no recommendations, draw no deductions, reach no conclusions. Nevertheless, they constitute the clearest and most comprehensive presentation of employer-employee relations in these two countries, the frankest and fullest account of the evolution, enactment and operation of the industrial relations laws which have ever been made. The time effort and thought which the commission put into its assignment were prodigious. Few governmental commissions ever presented a more intelligent and thorough study of a complicated subject.

IT IS impossible to read the reports and not regret that the opportunity to make recommendations which would at least point the way to straighten out the awful mess of our own labor legislation was denied this commission. It is impossible not to deplore the fact that its findings are likely to have so slight an effect upon the situation. It is a little sad that fine men could put so much of themselves into a survey of this sort and then have it forgotten. But, of what use are the facts, if no conclusions are to be drawn and no recommendations made? If, after a word of thanks from the President, (Continued On Page Five)

Road Opening To Draw Crowd

Program For Ceremonies On Friday At Hillsville Is Completed

BANQUET FOLLOWS AT THE CASTLETON

Weather permitting, the formal opening of the new highway between Edensburg and the Ohio line on Friday afternoon should attract a crowd. The event will be a gala affair in the Edensburg-Hillsville district and every one in the district who can get away will be there. From New Castle there will be a crowd, and in addition there will be visitors from Pittsburgh, Butler, Indiana, Youngstown, Findlay, Ohio, and a number of other places.

The exact spot at which the formal opening will take place is at the bridge spanning the highway near the St. Lawrence church.

Shaw In Charge
John E. Shaw, superintendent of highways is the general chairman of the day and will act as chairman of the opening exercises at Hillsville. The invocation and benediction will be pronounced by Rev. N. Pirulli of St. Lawrence church and Rev. A. A. Swanson of the Edensburg-Hillsville Methodist churches. Two small lots of the district will cut a ribbon and traffic will start over the fine new road.

Neither W. Roy Mosteller, president nor H. W. Findley, secretary of the County Construction Company can be present at the opening but it is hoped that H. N. McNutt, active superintendent of the job can, and will formally turn over the highway for use.

For the highway department, Joseph E. Burke, district engineer of Pittsburgh will accept the highway. This is the second important improvement on the Benjamin Franklin highway that Mr. Burke has had an important part of, the other being the Edensburg viaduct. Much of the credit for getting these two pieces of work done can be traced to his kindly interest and vigorous work.

Judge Braham To Speak

For the citizens of Lawrence county, Judge W. Walter Braham, president of the Lawrence county courts, will speak. George H. Burnett, assistant chief engineer of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, will be present and will speak. Music will be provided by the crack high school band of Bessemer. For the supervisors of Mahoning township, Joseph Kuhn will speak briefly.

In the evening a lengthier program will be heard at the dedication dinner in The Castleton hotel at 6:30 o'clock. At this dinner Rev. A. A. Swanson will deliver the invocation. The toastmaster will be Attorney Clarence A. Patterson, who will be introduced by John B. Shaw. A number of speakers will be heard at the dinner. District Engineer Joseph E. Burke will speak, as will Mr. Burdette of the P. & L. E. railroad. Former State Senator George T. Weingartner will speak upon the early history of the highway and State Senator William J. Eroe, Jr., will speak upon the completion of it. Mayor Charles E. McGrath will deliver an address of welcome.

For the New Castle Motor club and the AAA, Louis G. Genkinger will speak. John H. Williamson, president of the Benjamin Franklin Highway association, will speak. Floyd L. Cotton, president of the Lawrence county board of county commissioners, will represent that body and it is expected that representatives of the Bessemer Limestone & Cement company, Union Limestone company and the New Castle Lime & Stone company will be heard.

While the dinner starts at 6:30 there will be a reception on the second floor of the hotel beginning at 5:45 to meet distinguished guests who will be present.

Driver Arrested After Collision

Auto of Josiah Stull, of Madison avenue, was damaged at 8 p. m. Tuesday beyond Beechwood Inn on the Youngstown road, but the driver escaped serious injury, according to state motor police.

Stull was driving toward this city and George Brown, colored, of 544 George street, Youngstown, was operating a car toward Youngstown. The cars sideswiped.

Brown was arrested and upon conviction of reckless driving, was sentenced by Squire M. Reynolds, Union township, to 10 days in jail, police report.

Provincial Players Please Tuesday Crowd

With a number of minor discrepancies ironed out and an audience that was close to capacity, the Provincial Players presented "A Christmas Carol" Tuesday night for the second time in their own playhouse at the corner of East Washington and Bedford streets.

Lines were delivered much smoother than on Monday night, quick scene changes were made without a hitch and the audience reaction was most satisfactory.

Mrs. Juanita Brenner, business manager of the players stated today that on Friday morning the group would present the play in the Shenango high school for the students and their families.

The fathers doubtless would be pleased to know that we still have three branches of government—Corcoran, Cohen and Hopkins.

Burton succeeds Jack Meehling as the chapter leader.

they are turned over to Madame Secretary Perkins to lay on her shelves?

IT IS not the fault of the commission that its work has already been fled away and forgotten. It is the fault of the President, who clearly was afraid that to give the commission a free hand to express its conclusions and make recommendations might put him in an embarrassing position with the labor faction which contributed so largely to his campaign fund and in whose interests the Wagner law was enacted and is operated. He was afraid he might have either to repudiate his own commission or offend the C. I. O.

So he took no chances—he sent over a commission to study but not to deduce, conclude or recommend. Only the character and ability of Mr. Swope and his fellow-members kept them from being ridiculous. And if they hadn't made a really good report, still their unprecedented frugality would have stood them out as a notable group in a period of unrestrained prodigality.

How 3 Mothers out of 5 RELIEVE THE MISERY OF THEIR Children's Colds

VICK HOMES—3 out of 5

For two generations Vicks VapoRub has been mothers' standby for relieving the discomfort of all the family's colds. Today it is used in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

CAN BE USED FREELY... VapoRub is an external treatment. There's no "dosing"—no risks of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back.

ACTS DIRECT... VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief, two direct ways at once: (1) It acts direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath. This direct poultice-and-vapor action quickly loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—brings comfort and invites restful sleep.

DOUBLY-PROVED... VapoRub has been proved in daily use by two generations of mothers—further proved in one of the largest series of clinical tests ever made on colds. Just treat one cold with VapoRub—see for yourself how effective it is—and we believe that you, like most mothers, will always keep it handy in your home.

Col. Ayers Forecasts Better Business Year

By ALVIN L. KRIEG
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14.—Barring some "international calamity," 1939 will be a definitely better business year than 1938 has been, Col. Leonard P. Ayers told Cleveland business leaders Tuesday.

The general tone of Ayers' annual forecast of business was optimistic, but he tempered his predictions with the flat statement that America must abandon its dependence on "pump-priming." It is as futile, he declared, to believe the nation can spend itself rich as to suppose a man can drink himself sober.

Ayers, the one-time superintendent of schools in Puerto Rico who has become one of the nation's best known economists, based his address to the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce on the annual business bulletin of the Cleveland Trust Co., of which he is vice-president.

A business recovery financed by a pump-priming government, he said, was a fatal weakness, adding that "in such a recovery everyone fears that it may be only temporary."

Seek To Avoid Risks
"Manufacturers repair their plants," he said, "but they hesitate to build new ones. Retail merchants enlarge their stocks but not their stores. Auto manufacturers re-design their radiator grilles but hold back on costly new models. Every one tries to play safe and avoid risks."

Railroads are suffering from lack of "the financial vitamin that we know by the name of profits," and utilities have "nervous prostration caused by complete inability to plan ahead," Ayers said.

"If the utilities were expanding as they did in the last decade," he declared, "their activities would largely solve the problem of the railroads, and the roads and the utilities together would largely solve our recovery problem."

The most urgent economic problem faced in this country, Ayers said, is that of making next year the transition from "this pump-priming recovery" over into a long-term recovery carried forward by business instead of one pushed along by the government.

Ayers issued his customary forecasts for 1939 business, which he said were "personal estimates about probable developments." These were:

Personal Forecasts
Auto output should be between 30 and 50 per cent better than this year.

Contracts for new construction will probably be larger than those of any previous recovery year.

Average freight loadings may advance about 15 per cent.

National income seems likely to make a new high record for the recovery period.

The output of iron and steel is likely to be greater than that of 1935 and between 30 and 50 per cent ahead of this year, but not up to 1936 and 1937.

Among series likely to make a new all-time high records are petroleum refining, output of electric power, tobacco products, and the average hourly earnings of factory workers.

Merchandise exports will probably be smaller and imports higher in value than in 1938.

It seems probable that the average price of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange will be higher than it has been this year.

"The year 1939," Ayers concluded, "will mark the 10-year anniversary of our last prosperity. Recovery is no longer something to be desired; it has become something that is required if we are to continue in the path of progress that made this nation great."

South Carolina Industry Being Investigated As To Compliance With Law

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A South Carolina industry, which wage-hour administration Elmer F. Andrews said today "is close to the textile industry," is being investigated for prosecution under the new wage hour act.

Andrews also said an investigator was in New York City checking a certain firm against which complaints have been made but he refused to reveal the type of the company.

"Does the Carolina case deal with the textile industry," he was asked. "It's pretty close to it," Andrews said.

The administrator said he was anxious to get a case testing the constitutionality of the act before the supreme court as soon as possible. The two cases under investigation, he said, might develop into "typical cases of flagrant violations of the act." He hoped a case will be ready shortly to present the department of justice for prosecution.

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile does not flow, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Babies are fascinating objects to study.

They usually develop along well-established definite lines.

Babies do not hear at birth, but a few days later.

At first the baby distinguishes only between light and darkness.

From 3 to 6 weeks he begins to fix his eyes on objects.

The sense of smell is weak in newborn babies.

Taste, as between bitter and sweet, is present at birth.

The sense of touch exists at birth.

The mental power of newborn babies is practically dormant.

At about the second month pleasure is shown by smiling.

Memory starts at about the third month.

Infancy, the awakening period, is fraught with discovery.

France Warned To Aid Her Fishing Industry So Defenses Won't Suffer

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS.—France must help her fishing industry or her defenses will suffer.

This warning has been given Minister of Merchant Marine M. de Chappedelaine by a delegation of fishing fleet owners.

France, in the course of another conflict, might not have at her disposal the flotilla of fast coastal patrol boats (converted fishing vessels) that proved so valuable during the World war, the fishermen warned, unless immediate help is given their ailing industry.

The delegation explained to the minister, who in the present government has returned to a post he has previously occupied, that their position is a drastic one.

Old Ships In Service

Owing to the slump in French fisheries and to existing poor conditions of the market, the owners have not been able to renew their vessels for several years, with the result that many old ships which should have been laid up long ago are still in service.

The minister was in complete sympathy with the delegation both from the merchant marine point of view as well as that of national defense, and gave assurance that the government has the problem under consideration.

In 1920 the total fishing tonnage of France was nearly half a million tons, whereas in 1934 tonnage had dropped to 300,000. Exports nearly halved in that period.

Difference in the prices of fish on landing and in the Paris markets range from 300 to 2,000 percent, according to the national economic council.

Sudeten Children in London

Child refugees from Sudeten Germany and Poland are shown arriving in London, where temporary sanctuary has been prepared. Most of them are children of Jewish refugees, whose parents have gone to other shelters.

Texas Student Refuses Chance To Graduate

(International News Service)

HOUSTON, Texas.—Houston school authorities have an unusual program on their hands today: a boy who is eligible for his diploma but refuses to graduate.

Warren D. Coles, Jr., is the boy, and there's method in his madness. Coles, an excellent student only 16 years old, completed the regular four-year course in three years by extra work and careful selection of courses.

However, he wants to take a six-year course at Harvard university and realizes that his present educational background may be a little meager for such a stretch. So he decided to take another year of high school.

School authorities suggested Coles take his diploma now and return for a year of post-graduate work. But that doesn't suit him at all. He wants to be a full-fledged high school student—and that's what he's going to be, it was finally agreed.

Coles is a member of a class noteworthy for something else—every member is eligible for graduation without a single failure. The other boys and girls will take their sheepskins as scheduled.

Machine to Smell Your Breath

Six minutes after you tell Chief William O. Freeman, of Evanston, Ill., police that you didn't have a drink today, he could determine with this machine whether you're telling the truth. You'd blow up a toy balloon, and if you'd had a drink it would change the color of the fluid. If you've had enough of them, the fluid would turn colorless—and you'd be in the hoosegow. House Of Future To Have 1 Room Says Architect

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—A sprawling one-room, one-story house situated on about 10 acres of land.

That will be the home of the future, according to Frank Lloyd Wright, world-famed American architect, who spoke here recently.

The future home will be partitioned by screens instead of walls and have large window spaces giving an impression of freedom, according to Wright. All utilities probably will be located in the center with the house built around them, he asserted.

The telephone, radio, automobile and other modern inventions have given the people a new sense of freedom, and not only made possible but imperative, the end of living in closely-huddled houses in large cities.

"The door of the cage is open now," he said. "People have a new sense of distance."

Those who dwell in slums now probably will live in trailers and will be the gypsies of the future in the opinion of Wright.

Liar Champ Wins Prize With Tall Mosquito Yarn

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—"Citizens of Cairo, Ill., put solid steel bars on their windows to keep out mosquitoes, but they send their children through the bars to open locked doors from the inside."

That was the statement of "Danny" Dever which won for him a fancy pencil at the Independent Men's smoker on the campus of the University of New Mexico.

Dean of Men J. L. Bostwick, no mean liar himself, was so flabbergasted at Dever's story that he awarded him first prize for the biggest lie without saying a word.

"Danny," whose real name is John Franklin, is a freshman from the Illinois river town. He declared that he was such a liar that when he called hogs his mother had to repeat the call before the porkers responded.

Ask Injunction Against Concern

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The

Fidelity Investment Association, a nation-wide investing firm which marketed $500,000,000 of its own securities since 1920, today was accused of fraudulent operations by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC made its allegation in a bill of particulars filed with the U.

S. District Court at Detroit and asked for an injunction restraining the company from making additional sales of its securities in violation of federal and state laws.

When the Bible was translated into the Eskimo language, "baby seal" was substituted every time the word "lamb" appeared.

THINK ABOUT SAFETY BEFORE NOT AFTER YOU BUY A LOW PRICED CAR

WE BLEW A FRONT TIRE AND TUBE AT 60!

But, in a public test, the new Hudson 112 stayed straight on its course—safely (without using special tires, tubes or equipment)!

Why? Thanks to AUTO-POISE CONTROL—a revolutionary mechanical safety invention that keeps wheels on their true course automatically—on rough roads, in heavy side winds, even when a tire blows. NO OTHER CAR HAS ANYTHING LIKE IT. Auto-Poise is standard, at no extra cost, on the new Hudson 112—one of America's lowest priced cars.

WE DISCONNECTED HYDRAULICS AT 40!

In the same public test, hydraulic brakes were suddenly disconnected, but the driver just pushed the same foot pedal and the new Hudson 112 STOPPED—safely!

Why? Thanks to Hudson's exclusive DOUBLE-SAFE BRAKES—two braking systems (finest Bendix Hydraulics and a mechanical reserve system) working automatically from the same foot pedal. Many letters in our files tell of lives saved by Double-Safe Brakes—in all 1939 Hudsons.

All of this final decoration adds to the attractiveness of the strings of colored lights already placed across North Liberty street. In future years, the Seventh Ward will be lighted, due to the fact that the Seventh Ward Civic club has purchased the lighting strings outright for the community.

Jews Cannot Take Property From Germany

Emigrants Will Leave With Practically Nothing But Clothes

LATEST DECREES ADD RESTRICTIONS

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—Anticipating large-scale emigration of Jews from Germany after January 1, the ministry of economics issued further restrictive decrees to prevent Jews from taking their property abroad.

Under the latest decrees, any Jew leaving the Reich will go with hardly a shirt to his back, and even the taking of gifts to foreign countries is prohibited as constituting flight of German capital.

Contradicting claims in some government quarters in recent days that anti-Jewish pressure is slackening, the economics ministry decreed that the foreign exchange control laws will be effective throughout the Reich, including Austria and the Sudetenland, after January 1.

Additional measures to hamper efforts to remove capital from Germany were forecast as "a necessity proven by practical experience."

The newest regulations state: "Shipments or delivery of presents, or the carrying of any immigration goods abroad will henceforth explicitly require special permits."

"Jews of German nationality, or those without nationality are forbidden to take any possessions not strictly necessary for their personal use in travelling abroad."

These measures are expected to reduce the state of emigrating Jews to practically that of leaving with only a knapsack.

Local authorities are empowered to impose fines for minor violations of the foreign exchange laws, and there is to be a tightening of border restrictions, so that the difficulties of emigrating from the Reich will be increased.

Reports that a previous decree forbidding Jews to own or drive automobiles had been cancelled were officially denied today.

New License Tags In Use Thursday

Motorists who have received their new auto license plates—and there are a great number of them here—will be able to attach the new plates and use them Thursday, December 15, as has been the custom for the past few years.

Scout Steve Yankura To Get Special Recognition

At the National Court of Honor of the Boy Scouts of America held Tuesday night at New York City, Daniel Carter Beard, national scout commissioner and chairman of the court, announced the award of a certificate for heroism to Steve Yankura of 141 Atlantic avenue, New Castle.

Scout Yankura, who is 16 years of age and a Star scout of troop 9, New Castle, together with another scout, Robert Wheale, 15, a tenderfoot scout, rescued Charles Bulley, 40, from drowning in the Shenango river July 11, 1938.

An account of the rescue, read at the National Court of Honor, follows: The scouts were swimming in the river and as they left, noticed a man swimming slowly across the stream, the current of which was fairly strong. There were undercurrents due to holes in the rocky bottom.

Near shore the man suddenly stopped swimming and was seen floating downstream. The two scouts immediately went to his rescue, swimming 50 feet. They towed Mr. Bulley to shore and Scout Yankura's training enabled him to administer artificial respiration successfully.

In recognition of the heroism of Scout Yankura, the National Honor Court authorized the presentation of a special certificate. According to Karl F. Green, Lawrence county executive, the certificate will be presented to Yankura at the December Court of Honor here.

The certificate is a large document, beautifully lettered and carrying a full description of the rescue, effected by Yankura. At the end of the document in large, but attractive lettering is the signature of Daniel C. Beard, national commissioner.

At the same Court of Honor for the local council, Robert Wheale, the other scout who assisted in the rescue of Mr. Bulley will be presented with a letter of recognition and praise from Commissioner Beard.

Additional awards made to scouts Tuesday by the national court included four gold honor medals to scouts who had rescued others at great peril to their own lives.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

GOOD HABITS TAUGHT EARLY MAKE GOOD CHILDREN—AND HAPPY PARENTS.

I want to go over a few of the habits we are trying to have the Quintuplets form.

I've told you again and again that, since we are all creatures of habit, if we can teach our children good habits early, we have done something really important in shaping their adult lives.

It is so easy to teach a small child good habits that it is really a shame not to. It isn't hard to teach them when they are young to eat and like the proper foods; to train them in proper bowel and bladder control; to teach them to take exercise; to train them not to be selfish.

To do all this requires only one thing on the part of a parent—steady, patient care. That isn't easy, I know, but it pays. It means being on the job every day of the year.

As you no doubt know, the Quints had their tonsils out a short time ago. Well, we had to keep them in bed for quite a while, and while they were sick the routines which they followed were disturbed. When they got up and about again, we found that our discipline had suffered.

They had had a brief interval when things sort of went any way they wanted, and they just didn't relish going back to doing things at a certain time and in a certain way. Of course, it isn't taking any time to get them back to the routines, but it shows how vigilant you must be. I know lots of people don't like the idea of routines. They feel they wouldn't want to follow them themselves, but it pays dividends with children. Take the Quints, for example; they have sturdy, straight bodies, sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks. Your children can be just the same.

Mealtime is a very important time in the life of a child. If you can manage it, see that they get a little rest before they sit down to the table, for if they are rested they eat better and their digestive organs do much better work.

Parents should never bicker or quarrel at the table. It is very bad for the child who is listening as well as bad for your own digestion and disposition. If you must quarrel, wait until the child isn't around. By that time chances will be you've forgotten all about your little grievance. Nagging is one of the worst faults in marriage, and it doesn't matter who does it. Certainly you can't have a happy home with a nagging present. And if the home isn't happy, how can you have happy children?

Don't coax your child to eat if he is well; of course, it is sometimes necessary to coax the child who is ill. If one of the Quints won't eat her spinach, it is quietly removed, and she isn't coaxed to eat it. But neither is she given anything to replace it.

One important thing: Formulate a set of rules for your child's health, then never break them. Be consistent day after day.

State Grange Head Scores Regimentation

J. Audley Boak Advises Farmer
Not To Surrender Liberty
In Address

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 14.—J. A. Boak, master of the Pennsylvania Grange, assailed Government subsidies to farmers for crop control, declaring "to accept a subsidy is to become a servant."

Advocating education instead of subsidies to achieve agricultural conservation, Boak told the Grange sixty-sixth convention, farmers must decide whether "to surrender our political freedom for some economic advantage."

"I hope the answer will be a loud and fervent 'No' he added. 'Let us not submit to regimentation of the farmers or any other group.'"

Boak criticized the administration's reciprocal trade treaties, charging the agreements ruined the American farmer's market and flooded the country with products from other countries "while idle farms and idle workers constitute the chief problem in this nation."

Turning to labor controversies, Boak declared it was the duty of Government to recognize property rights, "honestly" accumulated and legitimately conserved, which has always been a fundamental American principle.

Gives Name Of Man He Claims Killed Man In Rochester

(International News Service) LOCKPORT, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Held for grand jury action after allegedly confessing the murder of Tony Massaro, 40, of Monaca, Pa., Virgil Earl Reynolds, 30, of New Brighton, Pa., today gave authorities the name of a man he claims fatally shot Tony Spitalo in Rochester, Pa., last March. Reynolds said the man received $800 from a source he declined to reveal for killing Spitalo and he received $580. The fatal shooting followed an argument over the division of some counterfeit money, Reynolds, according to police, informed them that he and the actual killer lured Spitalo to a lonely spot near a dam in Rochester, and that the victim was slain while seated in a truck.

Pardon Board To Grant Clemency To Warren County Slayers

Executions Will Not Take Place

Life Imprisonment Terms Be Given To Pair For Crime

MEN IN DEATHHOUSE FOR SEVERAL MONTHS

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—The state pardon board has decided to recommend clemency for John G. Polens and Joe Senauskas, granting them life imprisonment terms instead of exacting the death penalty for the Warren county slaying of Metro Semink, it was disclosed today. Secretary of Internal Affairs Thomas A. Logue, a member of the board, said that at the same time it was decided to refuse a commutation for William McKinley Blackwell, Allegheny county Negro slayer. Both decisions were reached at an executive session late last night. "We are going to recommend commutation for Polens and Senauskas," Logue told International News Service. "The Blackwell application will be refused."

Execution Date Was January 9
Polens and Senauskas were to have gone to the electric chair January 9. Blackwell's execution date is January 16.

Attorney General Guy K. Bard, however, would not confirm the news that a decision had been reached in each case.

"We have discussed these two cases but have not taken any action," he said.

It was assumed that, at any rate, the board's formal recommendation had not been prepared or submitted to Gov. George H. Earle.

Under fire in recent weeks for granting a parole to William "Blacky" Zupkosky, Philadelphia holdup artist who had been serving a 70 to 140 year term that started in 1929, the pardon board has displayed marked procedural caution in its current and final sitting.

In Deathhouse Several Months
Polens and Senauskas have been in the deathhouse at Rockview state prison for several months. The "triangle" killers were convicted of slaying Semink, a Youngsville innkeeper. One of the men was motivated by money, and the other by a clandestine affair with Mrs. Semink.

Convicted of complicity, Mrs. Semink served part of a short term in the industrial home for women at Muncy and was freed. Counsel for the two men contended that if the victim's wife were at liberty, they were at least entitled to life imprisonment.

It was also claimed that they pleaded guilty at their trial through an alleged understanding between their then counsel, the late Earl McDonald and Judge D. U. Arrid, Warren county, to the effect that their plea would assure a life sentence.

December Party Of Consistory To Occur On Friday

Beaver Valley Members Will Provide Entertainment For Evening

Indications point to a record attendance at the Christmas party of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, which takes place Friday evening in The Cathedral.

The members from Beaver Valley will have charge of the program of entertainment for the evening, and as usual promise something out of the ordinary and well worth while.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock, followed by the program in the newly decorated dining room.

A moving picture will be presented afterwards in the Cathedral theater, while dancing is enjoyed by devotees of the terpsichorean art in the ball room. There will also be cards for those preferring this form of entertainment.

This party is limited to Scottish Rite masons and members of their immediate families. Those not wishing to attend the dinner can take in the entertainment and movies at a lesser price, the committee states. Reservations can be made until Thursday evening.

Members of the Legion of Honor, of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, will meet Thursday evening in their rooms in The Cathedral.

Following the business session, a surprise entertainment is promised the members by Commander Harold Sampson, and a record turnout is indicated.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

What was once Austria, unhappy Austria, is a land today of terror and mystery. Men of one-time wealth and power have simply disappeared. No man sees them any more. No one dares even mention their names. That is life under dictatorship.

What has happened to these men? What has happened to former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg that brave little man who preferred prison or death to a dishonorable deal with Hitler? What has happened to Baron Louis Rothschild of the great banking family? No sooner had Herr Hitler's goose-stepping soldiers entered Vienna than Baron Rothschild was arrested and spirited away. The reason of course, was not only that he is a Jew but that he is rich. No man knows how much cash and property Hitler has seized by such arrests, condemnations and liquidations—to use the quaint synonym for killings that the Russians love to use.

Something of the romantic and historic always comes to mind when the name of one of those descendants of old Mayer Anselm Bauer of the Red Shield comes to mind.

What has happened to young Prince Starheimberg, whose ancestor, four centuries ago, drove the Turks back from the very walls of Vienna. From generation to generation the Starheimbergs played distinguished roles in Austrian affairs, but their star has set in the black Nazi night.

Prince Starheimberg was betrayed and set up in life by the man he picked up from Viennese gutters on a fragrant, joyous Spring morning.

Going home in motor car in the early morning the young prince saw a young man being thrown out of an inn. Starheimberg stopped his car and got out to help the man. It was a young Carinthian peasant-boy, ragged, drunken and bloody-penniless. But a giant—tall, strong with fists hard as steel. Starheimberg, helped the staggering youngster to his feet, gave him money and later made him his bodyguard.

When he went to political conference, and taking his merry flings into Vienna's night life, this peasant lad, Johann Klausner, was always with him. The Prince had no secrets from Johann—and thus, it came about that the Nazis knew every move that the Prince made, for the young man he had literally taken from the gutter had sold himself to the Nazis. The confidential sources through which the Nazis gained their information for their merciless attacks against the Prince hardly could have been other than Johann Klausner, the trusted, bodyguard. And today Prince Starheimberg, one-time owner of a dozen castles, many square miles of land and millions in money, is a pauper.

The Sunday Express of London set out to solve the problem of the relationships of Fame and Age. Is fame more likely to tag the young, or the middle-aged or the elderly? There doesn't seem to be a satisfactory conclusive answer.

Shirley Temple is a millionaire at ten, but Shakespeare was 27 when he wrote his first play and over 40 before fame really cast its garland around his neck. Orson Welles is a wonder on the stage at 23. William Pitt was Prime Minister of Great Britain at 24, but Marshall Foch was 65 before he was Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies. Jenghiz Khan, the Tartar conqueror, was ravaging the Asiatic plains at the age of 15, but the great German strategist Von Moltke, who defeated the French in the war of 1870, was 64 before he fought his first campaign.

Julius Caesar had the luck we all dream of by capturing a gang of pirates when he was on the way to Greece to study rhetoric, and was awarded the Roman equivalent of the V.C. This set him on the road to fame at the age of twenty-four. He invaded Britain at the age of forty-seven. Napoleon, most conspicuous of all rulers who rose from nothing, won fame by taking Toulon at the same age, twenty-four.

Francis Bacon, one of the greatest brains the world has ever known, published his first important book at the age of forty-four. H. G. Wells, born to a professional cricket, in a small general shop, became a draper, a chemist's apprentice, a student. He produced his first book at twenty-nine. Did he, one wonders, ever imagine in his prosaic routine jobs that he would end by being a great leader of world thought? Scott's first poems were published when he was thirty-one. Keats was known only to a small circle and people thought so little of his poems that he screwed them up and dropped them about his chemist's shop. In this way many great works were lost forever.

As for artists Van Dyck was well known at twenty-one. Turner was an A. R. A. at twenty-four. Sargent at thirty-eight. Constable painted his first really important picture at thirty-five. Rembrandt, greatest of all, was not rated very highly while he lived. Walt Disney invented the comic mouse that was to delight every nation under the sun when he was twenty-seven. Lives of great men seem to remind us that fickle Fame may confer her favors at any age from twenty to seventy.

A subpoena in divorce has been awarded in the case of Thomas Hanlon against Bonieta Hanlon, the former lives at 14 N. Beaver street and the latter at 123 W. Washington street. The couple were married in 1934 in Mercer. Grounds alleged in the libel are indignities.

Clarence Lipp of Little Beaver township, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Alfonso Scarazzo of this city to recover $391.15 damages as the result of an automobile accident. The accident happened on route 551, New Castle-Etton road near the residence of Harry White. It is claimed that Margaret Emma Lipp, wife of the plaintiff, had been calling at the White home, and after she emerged from a lane leading from the highway to the White residence, she was struck by a truck owned by the defendant and driven by Nick De Marko. It is alleged that when the truck came over the brow of a hill it was in the center of the road, and being driven at a high rate of speed. Mrs. Lipp claims that her car was on the right side of the road.

Plans for re-modeling the Boyles homestead, which have been prepared by Architect Harry Wirsing have been approved by both the county commissioners and the judges. According to the plans there will be a center hall running through the Boyles homestead as at present. On the north side there will be three rooms on the first floor for the district attorney's office and that of his assistant. On the south side of the hall there will be three office rooms for the permanent registration board.

On the second floor there will be four rooms, two of them chambers, to be occupied by Judges W. Walter Braham and Thomas W. Dickey. The other two rooms will contain the judge's private library and room for clerk or stenographer. The county superintendent of schools will also be located on this floor. On the third floor, which is now only floored but not finished, there will be seven office rooms for such purposes, as may be later designated. The ceiling is quite high on the third floor, and as there is a mansard roof, there is ample room for the seven offices.

Ample toilet facilities are provided on each floor. The heating of the building will be done from the central plant back of the jail. The boilers are sufficiently large to take care of it.

A little brick house which stands between the Boyles homestead and the court house is to be used for housing the relief department.

The plans as laid out provides for taking care of all the offices for which the county has been paying rent, and will result in a considerable saving to the taxpayers.

Owing to the changes which have to be made on the third floor it has been necessary to send the plans to Harrisburg for approval.

Fire Damage At Ellwood Plant

Loss Of Several Hundred Dollars By Blaze At Ellwood Co. Building

FIREMEN PREVENT SPREAD OF BLAZE

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 14.—Fire which was discovered shortly after 11 o'clock last night in the crating department of the Ellwood company, formerly the Ellwood Foundry, Second street and Hillside avenue, caused several hundred dollars damage.

When reported to the fire department by residents of the community, flames were shooting skyward from the roof of the building, which is a separate unit of the main plant. The newly constructed warehouse which joins this department was not damaged.

Quickly responding to the call, the firemen had the blaze under control in less than an hour. Only the speedy response of the fire department, directed by Chief Harry McWolfe, and their highly efficient manner in handling the situation kept the loss at a minimum by preventing the fire from spreading to other parts of the factory.

The building, constructed with brick walls and a wood roof, houses a large amount of lumber, but no costly machinery. While no cause has been determined, it is believed that the fire was caused by sparks from the motors of electric saws, smoldering in the sawdust. The department was operated during the day.

Officers of the company are C. W. Carbeau, president and treasurer; D. A. Evans, vice president, and J. H. Boots, secretary.

Mrs. James Grandey Passes Away Tuesday

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Elizabeth Eckles Grandey, aged 68 years, widow of the late James C. Grandey, passed away on Tuesday evening at five o'clock at the home of her son, J. Arthur Grandey, of 824 Crescent avenue, after an illness of several weeks.

Born and raised in Wampum, Mrs. Grandey had been a resident of this city for 35 years, and with her family resided for the past five years at her home on Crescent avenue. She was highly regarded and respected, and her death brings much sorrow to a legion of close friends and relatives.

She was formerly a member of the G. A. R. Circle and American Legion Auxiliary of this city.

In addition to the son and daughter, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Estella Edwards, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock from the Grandey home in Crescent avenue, with Rev. A. M. Stevenson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be made in the Locust Grove cemetery.

It was agreed to aid a worthy family at Christmas time and to set aside a certain amount of money each month for Christmas relief.

Amusing contests followed and gifts were exchanged before members adjourned to gather again on Wednesday evening, January 11, at the church.

At 6:30 o'clock the 110 attending found places at a brilliantly decorated table arranged about a beautifully adorned Christmas tree, the gift of J. L. Steckman.

A splendid program followed and included: Welcome, Mr. Earl Allen; response, Walter E. Simpson, post commander; solos, "The Indian Love Call" and "Rose Marie" by Aliqui Sautis accompanied by Mrs. A. Ellwood Wins Opening Game With Bessemer

Large Crowd Sees Basketball Season Launched Last Night At Lincoln Court

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 14.—With every one of the 14 players on the squad being given a chance to show the bleachers crowd a little of what they have to offer this season, Ellwood City high school basketball season was successfully launched last evening at Lincoln court with Bessemer high being the victim of a 43-20 defeat. There was an exceptionally large crowd on hand for the season's pre-season opener.

Marshall and Gelbach, forwards; Cunningham, center; Miller and Murphy, guards, were the five that started for Ellwood and they were soon replaced by another five that seemed to have more scoring punch, and as was expected, a great many combinations were tried during the game.

Both teams used the zone defense and it was a rough and tumble game with Ellwood having 31 foul attempts and Bessemer 31. Bessemer was handicapped by the fact that Hribar, Zornich, DeArment and Pellico were ejected for fouls early in the game.

The Newton crew took an 8-5 lead at the first quarter and kept adding to their lead while holding the plucky visitors to a low score. Oloviani and Robuck were standouts for the blue and white and Hribar and Zornich for the losers.

Hitting a fast scoring stride in the second half, the Bessemer reserves topped the Ellwood sophomores 32 to 26 in a preliminary game.

Saturday night Ellwood journeys to Norwin high and the following Tuesday night they will play a return game at the local gym.

Mrs. Anna Wilson, teacher, and Mrs. Painter, assistant teacher, were presented with lovely gifts in appreciation of their faithful services and they graciously responded.

Woman's Club Luncheon-Event Is Most Enjoyed

Large Attendance At Christmas Affair Held In U. P. Church Dining Room

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 14.—Bright and gay decorations of candles, wreaths, pine cones and white gourds formed the striking background for a most pleasurable and successful buffet luncheon and Christmas program held in the First United Presbyterian church dining room on Tuesday afternoon by members of the Woman's club.

The attractive arrangements were the work of the Garden section and as each member arrived she was given a pretty Christmas corsage made by the section members.

After partaking of the delicious luncheon, the group enjoyed singing popular carols under the leadership of Mrs. B. C. Osterhouse after which the Woman's club settable under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Jones sang two pleasing selections, "Jesus" and "Bambino."

Under the direction of Mrs. J. Ellis Bell, the drama section presented a very fine play entitled, "The Christmas Tale." Excellent character portrayals were given by Mrs. Lloyd Randolph as St. Nick; Mrs. Fred Hall as Pierre; Mrs. J. K. Painter as St. Rose; and Mrs. Harry Eiselein as Jacqueline. During the play appropriate music was contributed by the sextette. Effective staging and costuming added much to the successful presentation and was arranged by Mrs. Robert Balderson, Mrs. Keith Hamilton and Mrs. James Blom.

At a brief business meeting led by the president, Mrs. John Hough, it was agreed to purchase a $5 tubercular bond. Encouraging reports of the progress of the hospital and civic committees were given with the latter group asking for additional games for the Saturday night recreation activity, in the city buildings.

The January meeting will be held in the form of a luncheon and the program will center about a lecture on interior decorating by a representative of State College. William Jones, popular local soloist, will sing at that time.

Injuries Fatal To Samuel Dengel

Mr. Dengel had resided in this city for many years and had many friends. He was an employee of the National Tube company.

Survivors are one son, Michael, with whom he resided, and one sister, Mrs. John Huber, of this city. His wife, Kathryn, preceded him in death a number of years ago.

The family will receive friends at the W. D. Porter funeral home until Saturday, when the body will be removed to the German club, where last rites will take place at one o'clock. Interment will be made in Locust Grove cemetery.

Wilkinson Class Has Oyster Supper

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 14.—Wilkinson Bible class members of the Immanuel Reformed church were graciously welcomed last evening by Mrs. Violet Wardman at her home, in Keystone way, for the December meeting.

Mrs. Anna Ricer led the worship service after which the guests were served a delicious oyster supper by the hostess at a brightly appointed table. Suitable gifts were exchanged in a novel manner.

For the next meeting on Tuesday evening, January 10, Mrs. Lloyd Jones will entertain at her home in Wampum avenue.

Service Club To Aid Families

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 14.—Most enjoyable for participants was a tureen dinner and Yule party held last evening by members of the Women's Service Club of Wurttemberg Presbyterian church at Ellport.

After partaking of the tempting dinner, games and contests occupied the guests with the awards going to Mrs. Lawrence McNary, Mrs. James Cogley and Mrs. Homer Ford. Attractive gifts were exchanged.

Mrs. Charles Wehman was received into the club's membership. It was agreed to make Christmas merry for three needy families in the local community.

At the next meeting on Tuesday evening, January 10, the hours will be devoted to folding bandages for the local hospital.

Fighting Fires Only Small Part Of Firemen's Duties

Fighting fires is not the only job city firemen are called upon to do day in and day out, a fact with which the public is very little acquainted with. Dashing to the fire on the shiny screeching truck is just a part of their many duties.

They are called upon for some very unusual tasks at various times of the year because people know that they have (ladders) at their command, ladders which can reach both up and down.

For instance, someone's dog in playful mood, leaps the stonewall lining Neshaanock creek without investigating what is on the other side, and finds to his surprise that he has landed many feet below in the water. He makes for shore and is marooned there on some rock. In time his mournful howls come to the ears of someone and firemen are asked to go and rescue the foolish pooch.

Perhaps the next day, Junior, experimenting with the key which always reposes in the lock of every fully equipped bathroom locks himself in, and then becomes panic stricken. Despite coaxing, begging, and threatening, he cannot be induced to turn the key in the lock again, and it is necessary to summon the firemen to place a ladder up to the bathroom window, crawl in and release Junior.

And then only a short time afterwards, someone's parrot or pet canary escapes from his cage, and lodges in a tree. Ordinary ladders won't reach the spot, so the firemen are called.

Rescue Squirrels In Tree
Last summer, local firemen were summoned to Park avenue, to rescue a nest of baby squirrels, whose mother had been killed by an automobile. They found the young ones in a crotch of the tree and they were safely lowered to the ground and turned over to game authorities.

One summer, the pumping apparatus at the city golf links broke down. The greens were burning up. There is a small lake, fed by spring water on the grounds, and firemen took one of the pieces of city apparatus to the spot and pumped water all night long so that the tender grass on the greens could be well soaked down, saving them from destruction.

Several years ago, firemen were asked to go to a home on Nemo street, where a man was dying with pneumonia. They took their inhalator to the home, pumped oxygen into his lungs throughout the night, and saved his life.

The inhalator which the fire department uses, is recognized as the best method of attempting to resuscitate someone who has drowned, but the public is not generally acquainted with the fact. Occasionally they receive a call for its use for this purpose however, or to save someone who has inhaled carbon monoxide or other noxious gases. Quite a number of the firemen who were overcome at Christmas time last year in the fire at Autenreith's store, were revived with the inhalator in the hands of expert first aid men.

A heavy snow falls, and endangers the roof of the city building, a flat-topped affair. Firemen are summoned, climb to the roof on their ladders and shovel the snow off the roof.

The ropes on someone's flag pole get twisted or new ropes are required. The pole will not support the weight of a person, so firemen are summoned, through arrangements with the proper city official, and new ropes are put in place.

Are Versatile Lot

Instances after instance might be cited of the versatility of our city's fire fighters. The above cases however are enough to show that their is a diversified work.

In addition to all this they make inspections of city properties to see that no fire hazards exist, and where they are found, property owners are ordered to clean them up, so that a general conflagration will not start, endangering surrounding properties. When the fire plugs freeze up, due to a leaking valve, as often proves the case during the winter season, inspections have to be made and the frozen plugs thawed out. It's all in the day's work for them.

Firefighters are good house-keepers too. When on duty, they cook their own meals, and can lay out a spread that will tempt the appetite of the most fastidious. They keep their quarters immaculately clean. As soon as a fire is over, no matter how tired and cold they are, their first duty is to clean up the apparatus, change the wet and dirty hose for clean dry hose, and wash down the floors of the building. Regular as clockwork, windows are washed, and the fire station given a regular house-cleaning. The even do a little painting when things get looking too dingy.

In fact, for an all-round man of all work, few do the jobs that our city firemen do, and do well.

New Castle Hi Tops Meadville In Opener 30-29

Bombyk Scores Winning
Three Points In Final Seconds Of Exciting
Battle

FORD CITY IS NEXT ON CARD

New Castle high school basketball team opened the 1938-39 floor season last night by taking a 30 to 29 victory over Meadville high with Bombyk, the tall New Castle center, producing the winning points in the final seconds of play.

Play is exciting. The end of the first period it was even-tempered with both teams having eight points. New Castle didn't fare as well in the second stanza, scoring but two points while the Meadvillers scored six more points to go ahead by a count of 14 to 10.

New Castle picked up steam in the third period to outscore the Meadvillers 10 to 8 and to almost get up even with their opponents again, this time it was Meadville out in front 23 to 20.

With less than a minute to play Meadville was ahead 29 to 27 and the local cause looked sunk, but they hadn't reckoned with Bombyk and he dumped in a field goal and a foul as fast as you can say Jack Robinson and the Red and Black of New Castle had a victory.

Bombyk, of course, stole the spotlight and along with him were "Flash" Wenda, Kelly and Clark playing fine basketball. For Meadville the work of Dill and McLallen was by far the best.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh used 11 of the 12 men that he had with him on the trip. New Castle's next game is at Ford City December 16.

Mulcahy Comes Way Too High For Pittsburgh

Phillies Only Want Johnny

WOULD TAKE BILLY HERMAN AND $60,000

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—A few cold facts and some hot rumors are on tap today from the annual powwows of the National and American baseball leagues.

Let's toss the technical stuff into the ash can and get down to some facts, probabilities and rumors that may interest the fans.

To begin with, it seems a sure bet that the Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics will have night baseball next season. This means that the Phillies, who use the A's park, also will play under the lights.

Next we have the assurance that the New York Giants and the Yankees will broadcast their games, thus putting a microphone in every major league park.

Mulcahy Comes High

Now for some hot stove stuff. It appears, according to Pie Traynor of the Pirates, that every club in the National League, is trying to woo Hugh Mulcahy, young right-hander, away from the Phillies. "And what," says Pie disgustedly, "do you think the Phils are asking for him? Only Arky Vaughn or Johnny Rizzo and 60,000 bucks. And they're asking the Cubs to give them $60,000 and Billy Herman."

Gerry Nugent, owner of the Phils, vows he will sell no players this time. And when Jewel Ens, coach of the Pirates, heard that, he snickered: "Oh, no, and what's he snickering to do for dough when that third payroll rolls around next year?"

However, it appears that Nugent has got some fresh scratch behind him and won't have to unload, at least, not before mid-summer.

Bill Terry thinks his Giants are all set with the acquisition of Zeke Bonura to play first base, but one of the American leaguers put a damper on Terry when he remarked: "Yep, he'll lead the league in RBI." "So you say he'll lead in runs batted in? That's swell," said Giant Secretary Eddie Brannick. "No," says the American leaguer, "I meant runs batted in."

Indians Pull Boner
The Indians seem to have pulled a boner in putting so many of their players on the auction block before the season ended. Now they're stuck trying to trade at a high price players they said were no good.

Joe Cronin is trying desperately to land a pitcher or two but means that everybody wants to lure young Ted Williams from him.

Bucky Harris is advising Casey Stengel to grab Al Simmons for his Boston Bees and Casey may do that very thing.

And good old Sam Bresnan says he wouldn't give up Joe Medwick or Johnny Mize for a million bucks by a pie. But I'd hate to lay the million on the line. Selah.

Dodgers-Boston Trade Players

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Larry MacPhail made two trades with the Boston Bees today in the hopes of strengthening his Brooklyn Dodgers lineup in 1939.

He gave the Bees, first baseman Buddy Hassett and fielder Jim Outlaw and an unannounced amount of cash for pitcher Ira Hutchinson and fielder Eugene Moore.

MacPhail also got Louis Crousse, a pitcher, from Elmira. He had previously traded Crousse and cash to St. Louis for Outlaw.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

That milk fund show went down in our book as one of the most exciting fistic roundups in many years here. Those amateurs gave everything they had, giving the fans a million dollar job. Ellwood City's three scrappers contributed more than their share in making the affair such a success. "Babe" Retardo, a lean 115 pounder, looked exceptionally good. Against a much taller foe, the Ellwoodian refused to give ground and scored a hit. Benny Bartel, a 170 pounder, nearly rocked the house with his punching exhibition. He belted a lad named Karplack, all over the place. This Bartel guy packs plenty of dynamite in those mitts. Nickie Retardo, the third Ellwoodian, was pitted against a Tony Roma, who was faster than a fawn, until Nickie took some of the spring out of him. They slugged all the way through, even after one of the rounds was over.

Frankie Moran, who returned to the ring after a lapse of several weeks, won the plaudits of the huge crowd. Despite the fact that he suffered a cut over one of his eyes, Moran played with Referee Ley shock not to halt the battle. The former Mercer county county detective gave in. As a result, fans watched one of the most thrilling battles in sometime. "Blackie" Ferrar, the pride of the south side, saw his victory string broken by a tough Benny Miller. Ferrar did exceptionally well against the more experienced Ohioan.

Short sports story . . . Carnegie Tech's sudden rise in the gridiron world is netting the Smokey City school quite a few nickels. Aside from drawing 121,000 customers at its four home tussles, Tech will receive approximately $50,000 for its meeting with T. C. U. New Year's Day. Tony Galento has been offered a $10,000 gift if he meets Red Burman, Baltimore heavy. The sum will be exclusive of the purse and will be handled to Roly-poly Tony the moment he steps into the ring. Max Waxman, who has piloted such notables as Joe Dundee, Vince Dundee and Henry Jeffra to world titles, has made the offer which sounds "fishy" . . .

ARRANGE THURSDAY GAME

It was announced today that the Penn Power basketball team will play the Gus' Big Five at the Arena floor on Thursday night. The game will start at 6:30 o'clock.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Largest crowd that yet has gone into The Arena visited there Monday night when an amateur boxing show was sponsored by the Exchange club and no doubt many of those who went there witnessed their first boxing bout. And when they did they saw Mickie Rubin, game Mickie, he may be appropriately called, knocked out by Dave Nemlow. The blow that felled him was flush on his jaw. Mickie fell forward and his face skidded upon the floor. However, Mickie has lost before and it doesn't naturally follow that because he lost Monday that they will continue. Frankie Moran also looked good. In fact in winning over Leo Seaborne he demonstrated his real fighting worth. We always have consented that were Frankie to "pick up his feet," meaning show some speed of feet plus aggressiveness he would come along all right.

Some fans have asked the blow Moran used to put Seaborne down several times. It was either a right or left chop to the back of the head or neck. However, the glove was not open. When the glove is open and the palm is turned sideways it is a rabbit punch and not permitted. Police and firemen, the former city and state, were scattered throughout the building and all in all, it was a very orderly show; the same as all of the boxing encounters in The Arena.

A cameraman, working for the educational department of a film company, met a sarcastic farmer in town and said:

"I've just been taking some moving pictures of life on your farm."

"Did you catch any of my men in motion?" asked the old farmer, curiously.

"Sure I did."

The farmer shook his head reflectively then commented: "Movies are a wonderful thing."

Stock Market Tone Is Firmer

Several Leaders Add Gains Of Point Or More In Morning Trading

BY LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Firming tendencies persisted in the stock market today, with several leaders adding gains of a point or more. Aviations and steels again were the pace-makers, many of the active air shares climbing into new high ground for the year.

Douglas, Speery and United Aircraft each set a new 1938 top with gains of a point or more. Glenn L. Martin and Boeing advanced about as much.

Bethlehem, Johns-Manville, DuPont, Union Carbide, Cerro de Pasco, Santa Fe, U. S. Rubber and American Can also moved up a point or better.

Reo Motors was under heavy pressure, following news of a group of stockholders had asked for appointment of a receiver. The issue lost half its value on a point tumble to 1, a new low.

A New Life on Forty Cents

Bravely looking to the future and turning her back on the terror-ridden past, this little girl, one of the 250 Jewish child refugees who recently went to England from Germany, is shown at the reception camp in Harwich, England. The children were permitted to take only one mark (40 cents) with them from Naziland, and only the barest necessities in clothing. But this child managed to cling to her doll. (Central Press)

Dictator Governments Assailed By Acheson

Dictator countries—countries like Germany, Italy, Russia and Japan—have set up forms of government which ultimately will destroy their entire capacity for social progress, Barclay Acheson, national-known editor of Reader's Digest, told the Lion's club at its weekly meeting yesterday.

"I believe," Acheson said, "that it can be demonstrated that wherever dictatorships have been established, there has been a destruction of the vitality of the social order."

The magazine editor, came to New Castle to address an afternoon assembly of the Woman's club. Last night he spoke at New Brighton.

He denounced, vigorously, the dictatorships where "the government has super-imposed its thoughts on the people and where the government hands out to its citizens official patterns of thought like one would hand out garments."

"And they wear those garments," he added, "in public anyway."

Widely traveled and fully informed of political developments

here and abroad, Acheson chose to devote much of his time to a comparison of the processes of democracy and those of the dictatorships. He sketched the progress America, as a democracy has made.

He scored the "acquiescence" on the part of Americans to do absolutely nothing about things—he let the Lions know he abhors the attitude of despair.

And he said:

"When my friends in Wall Street say they're blue, I'll tell them they've got their colors confused. I'll tell them they're yellow, not blue. They shouldn't feel any despair, and neither should we. We should set out to do something about it."

Without courage and faith, he reminded, no great thing has been accomplished. It takes that to succeed.

The advancement of America in two fields alone—the attitude of society toward debtors, and its attitude toward child labor—was related by the magazine head, as proof, sufficient that democracy, as we've known it, has not failed.

Governor James Arranges Dances At Inauguration

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14—Governor-elect Arthur H. James is booked up for the first two dances at his inaugural ball on January 17th, he disclosed today.

"My partner in the grand march will be my daughter, Dorothy," he announced. "I shall have the first dance with her and the second with my sister, Mrs. Martha H. Edwards, who lives in Forty Fort, near my home town, Plymouth."

The next governor intends to have his inauguration as simple, dignified and inexpensive as possible. "The expenses certainly will not be more than $3,000," he said.

When the first census of the United States was taken in 1790, Virginia, the leading Southern state, ranked ahead of New York state both in population and in commerce. Virginia at that time had twice the population of New York and was very much more prosperous.
